Welcome to Kido Crouch End

early years, reimagined

The first five years are the most crucial period of any child's life. And yet, the world over, nurseries and preschools rely on 20th century teaching and technology to prepare children for the 21st century.

At Kido, we've set out to change that, and bring advances in pedagogy, design and technology to create the highest quality nurseries and preschools anywhere.

Across the world, and here in the heart of Crouch End, we're creating magical spaces for children to play, learn, grow and thrive. Reach out to us and your nursery manager will take you on a tour of a magical learning journey for your child.

"The kids are doing great activities and the app is super easy and useful. Our daughter is always excited to go there. We can only recommend Kido Crouch End."

The Kido Story

by parents, for parents

We are owned and operated by a group of parents from all over the world. We were set up in response to our founders' struggles as young parents in different cities around the world. So, since our first school in Hong Kong in 2014, we've been obsessed with two things: improving learning outcomes for children, and our service to parents.

To meet our twin objectives, we've invested significantly in people, technology and systems on every aspect of a nursery operation - recruitment, training, curriculum, operations, observations and assessments, parent communication and much more.

We've served thousands of families in places as diverse as the USA, the UK, the UAE, India and China. Being international, we incorporate best practices from around the world.

Kido Nurseries & Preschools

nursery, meet the future

We are on a mission to build the best early learning spaces in the world. According to the Reggio Emilia approach to early education, the environment is considered the third educator. With that in mind, we've created some of the most stimulating preschools and nurseries in the world. No location can ever be too beautiful for our children.

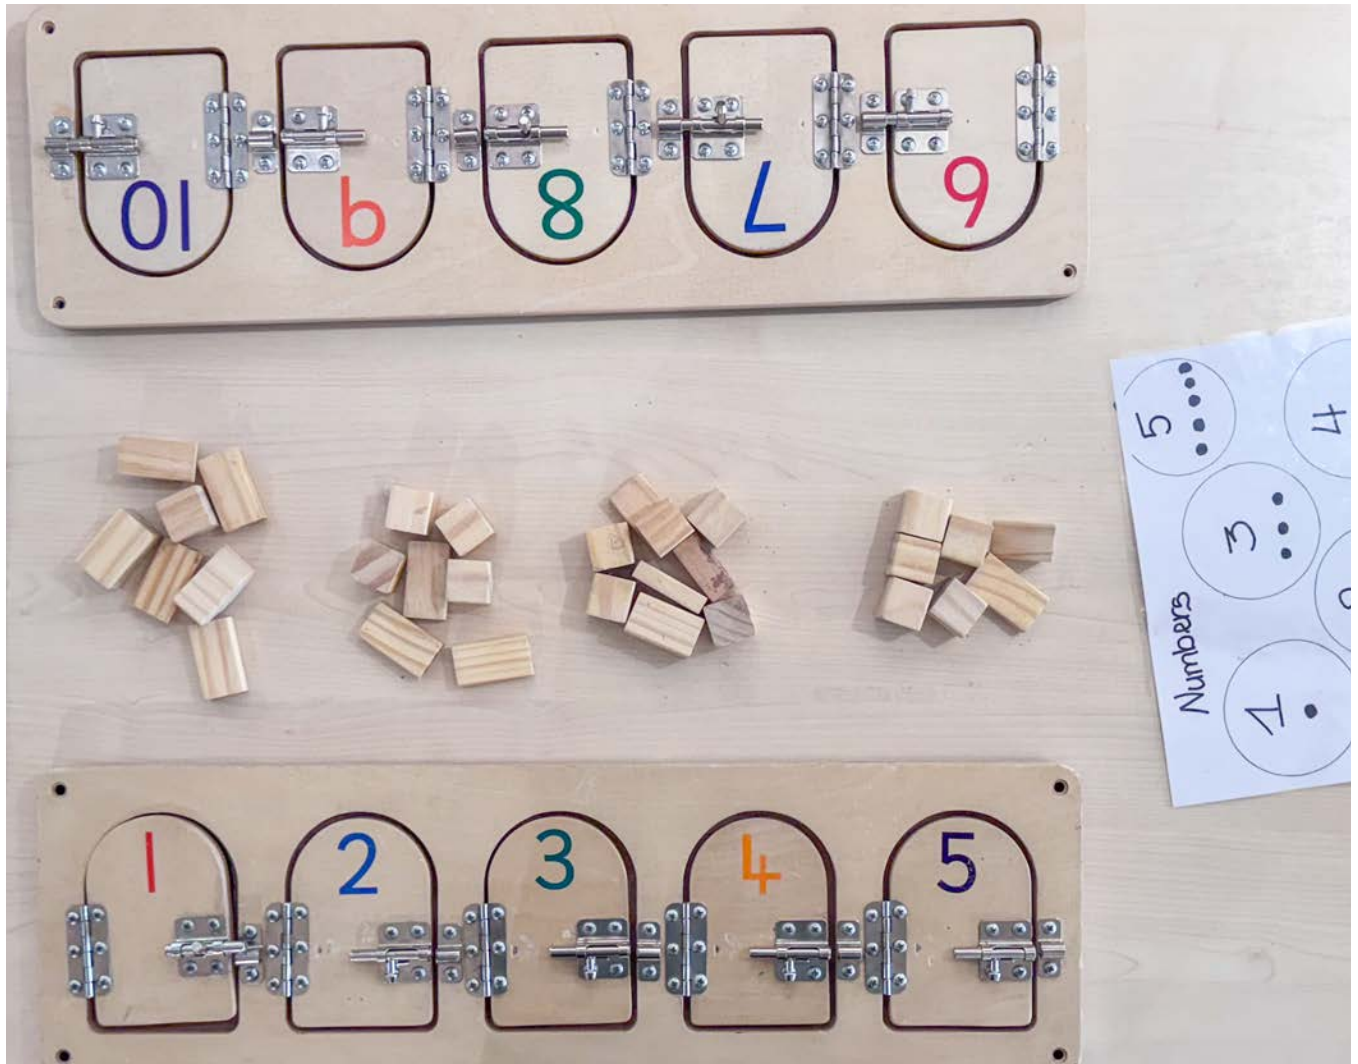

Our school design goes hand in hand with our pedagogy. Every area is set up to aid the learning journey of each child. Furniture and resources are curated from the best providers in the world. Our technology platform allows teachers to spend more time on the children and less on administration. We use technology as a tool to improve the experience of both children and parents.

“Along with frequent photos and updates of his daily activities, we enjoy receiving his monthly report and hearing about his progress, what he has learned and what we can do at home to support his development.”

Our Pedagogy

early years, reimagined

We believe that a combination of free and structured play, an engaging and interactive learning environment, and an abundance of love, care and attention provide the most solid foundation for children in the early years.

The Kido Early Years Program draws best practices from leading philosophies from around the world, such as Montessori, Reggio Emilia and the theory of Multiple Intelligences. It is developed in house and supported by a world renowned panel of advisors. Our pedagogical leadership team has over 200 years of combined experience in early years teaching, research and pedagogy across more than ten countries, and in multiple languages. We modify our program for each country that we operate in, to adhere to national curriculum framework

"The staff are great and the facilities lovely. Our baby boy has already learned so much and is much more outgoing and inquisitive since being there."
